

PRESS RELEASE

11150 East Boulevard
Cleveland OH 44106-1797
www.clevelandart.org

For more information and images, please contact:
Kelley Notaro Schreiber, 216-707-6898, knotaro@clevelandart.org

Internationally Renowned Contemporary Artist Laura Owens Collaborates with Local Teens for First Exhibition in Her Native Northeast Ohio The Cleveland Museum of Art Presents Laura Owens: Rerun at Transformer Station

Cleveland (January 28, 2021) — Celebrated for a wide-ranging and experimental approach to painting that embraces a breadth of sources, Laura Owens returns to her native Northeast Ohio for her first exhibition in the region, Laura Owens: Rerun. Organized by the Cleveland Museum of Art, Laura Owens: Rerun is a collaboration with high school students participating in the CMA's Arts Mastery program, Currently Under Curation (CUC). The exhibition features new and existing works by the artist that the Currently Under Curation teens have selected to explore the theme of time travel. Laura Owens: Rerun is on view at Transformer Station, the CMA's sister contemporary art museum, from February 27 to May 30, 2021.

Currently based in Los Angeles, Owens grew up in Norwalk, Ohio, and spent many hours as a teenager studying the Cleveland Museum of Art's encyclopedic collection. From the earliest days of planning this exhibition, Owens knew she wanted to work with local teenagers as a way to connect her own past and present and to develop a show rooted in Cleveland. Students from the CMA program involved in the exhibition are Jamal Carter, Xyhair Davis, Skylar Fleming, Yomi Gonzalez, Joseph Hlavac, Agatha Mathoslah, Arica McKinney, Maya Peroune, and Deonta Steele.

"Over the past two and a half decades, Laura Owens has become one of the most influential painters of her generation," said William Griswold, director of the Cleveland Museum of Art. "The artist's partnership with her teen collaborators has resulted in a remarkable new exhibition relating to the premise of time travel, in which she reflects on her own past and imagines new and future possibilities."

In Transformer Station's main gallery, time travel is animated through well known works by Owens that span her career. They are shown alongside the artist's own art from high school, presented publicly for the first time. The Crane Gallery features a new site-specific installation of Owens' unique handmade wallpaper. Laura Owens: Rerun also presents objects from the CMA's Education Art Collection.

“This exhibition is the culmination of an inspired and inspiring collaboration between Laura Owens and the CUC teens,” said Emily Liebert, CMA curator of contemporary art. “Laura has given the teens a window into the practice of one of the most influential artists working today. The teens have brought their curiosity, energy and insights to animate this collaboration every step of the way.”

Starting in 2018, Owens and the CUC teens held bi-monthly meetings in which they discussed their interests; high school art of the past, present, and future; memes featuring artworks; and time travel, among other topics. These conversations were the inspiration for Owens’ site-specific, bespoke wallpaper installation in the Crane Gallery. In these meetings, Owens and the CUC teens also explored the CMA’s Education Art Collection, which includes more than 10,000 pieces from many different eras and regions of the world and was created to be shared with Cleveland area schools for educational purposes. A group of objects from the collection were selected to be exhibited in relationship with the work of Laura Owens. Owens’ wallpaper installation incorporates images of many objects from the collection that she discussed with the CUC high school students.

As part of this project, Owens and the teen curators also created a time capsule that will be buried in the education department’s archive for ten years, not to be opened until 2031. The time capsule is designed by Owens and will house content selected by the teen group.

“The cross-generational conversation with the CUC high school students was one of the most productive and inspiring collaborations I’ve been fortunate enough to be a part of. Their influence on the work I’ve made for this show can’t be underestimated,” said Owens. “I owe a debt of gratitude to the teens for their thoughtfulness and the generosity with which they shared their excitement and ideas. The buoyancy of our inspirational conversation kept me afloat through the COVID pandemic.”

Owens (born 1970, Euclid, Ohio) was recently the subject of a mid-career retrospective at the Whitney Museum of American Art, New York (2017–18), which traveled to the Dallas Museum of Art (2018) and The Geffen Contemporary at the Museum of Contemporary Art, Los Angeles (2018–19). Other recent solo exhibitions were at the CCA Wattis Institute for Contemporary Arts, San Francisco (2016); Secession, Vienna (2015); and Kunstmuseum Bonn, Germany (2011). Owens studied at the California Institute of the Arts and the Rhode Island School of Design. In 2021 Owens will also present a dual exhibition Laura Owens & Vincent van Gogh at Fondation Vincent van Gogh Arles, France.

Please view the press kit for more information and a selection of visual highlights.

Transformer Station is located at 1460 W. 29th St., Cleveland, OH 44113.

Major support is provided in memory of Myrlin von Glahn.

All exhibitions at the Cleveland Museum of Art are underwritten by the CMA Fund for Exhibitions. Major annual support is provided by the Estate of Dolores B. Comey and Bill and Joyce Litzler, with generous annual funding from Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Chapman Jr., Ms. Arlene Monroe Holden, Eva and Rudolf Linnebach, William S. and Margaret F. Lipscomb, Tim O’Brien and Breck Platner, the Jeffery Wallace Ellis Trust in memory of Lloyd H. Ellis Jr., the Womens Council of the Cleveland Museum of Art, and Claudia Woods and David Osage.

###

About the Cleveland Museum of Art

The Cleveland Museum of Art is renowned for the quality and breadth of its collection, which includes more than 61,000 objects and spans 6,000 years of achievement in the arts. The museum is a significant international forum for exhibitions, scholarship, performing arts, and a leader in digital innovations. One of the top comprehensive art museums in the nation, recognized for its award-winning Open Access program and free of charge to all, the Cleveland Museum of Art is located in the University Circle neighborhood.

The museum is supported in part by residents of Cuyahoga County through a public grant from Cuyahoga Arts & Culture and made possible in part by the Ohio Arts Council (OAC), which receives support from the State of Ohio and the National Endowment for the Arts. The OAC is a state agency that funds and supports quality arts experiences to strengthen Ohio communities culturally, educationally and economically. For more information about the museum and its holdings, programs and events, call 888-CMA-0033 or visit cma.org.

About Transformer Station

Founded in 2013 by The Fred and Laura Ruth Bidwell Foundation, Transformer Station is a free, privately owned, contemporary art museum located on the west side of Cleveland. The exhibition schedule at Transformer Station is shared with The Cleveland Museum of Art and the facility is a promised gift to the Museum.